

Telegraphic.

If a person does not like the custom of any community, it is an act of insanity to make war thereon. The world is large, there is ample room for all and more, let the dissatisfied go where he can find things to his liking or endeavor to effect a change by the force of expressed opinion, not by unpardonable rudeness and unwarrantable violence.—Telegraph of Tuesday.

What does the fellow mean? What does he call "the force of expressed opinion"? Is it that "custom" of this "community" which justifies the assassination of a man who happens to fall under the banner of the church? How meekly and saint-like he advises that no "unpardonable rudeness and unwarrantable violence" should be resorted to by those who do not find things to their liking! That is, indeed, most excellent counsel, but it comes with an exceedingly bad grace from the pen of one who during the past week has proven himself the apologist of murder—the adviser of assassination. How meekly this "man Friday" follows his file-leader. Just compare the following with the remarks of the Prophet in the Tabernacle, as given in yesterday's paper:

If a man comes into this community and endeavors to seduce either wife or daughter of a citizen, he does it at the imminent risk of his own life, and he may account himself extremely lucky if he lives to get away.

The same comments are applicable to the above, which we yesterday applied to the "original." But there is another view which we wish to present here, and it is this: That while the Mormon papers are eternally prating about the terrible virtue existing here, making it appear that society among the Mormons is a sort of Garden of Eden affair, and that every "Gentile" who passes through the Territory is but another serpent in disguise, who comes here expressly to "tempt" some fair and virtuous Eve, the fact is that human nature in Utah is about the same as it is every where else. That the large majority of the women are virtuous there can be no manner of doubt. It is the same in other communities, notwithstanding the "New York experience" of a certain very moral and virtuous Editor whom we could name. But we deny that the women of Utah are a whit more virtuous than those of any agricultural community in the world. There is no reason why they should be. Their religion, judging by its fruits, is no better than that of any other. The example of their leaders and counselors is not very conducive to a high attainment of morality—at least it would not be so considered outside of Mormonism. Now, this is not "slander," neither is it "abuse." It is simply plain common sense; and we appeal to the judgement of candid and sober men and women among the Mormons, and ask, is it not true?

You ask for examples? We can give them. We happen to know some of the worst phases of Polygamy as illustrated in certain families in this city. Old men, having grown up sons, marrying women younger in years than the sons themselves. That is the basis of several of our proofs. Do you want them published? But the Mormon people are not to blame, neither are the women as a class to be condemned for the sins of the few. We do not condemn them.—Virtue is the result of no religious system. It is a principle implanted in the heart of woman, and exists in Utah as in all civilized countries; but we believe that it is prized so higher, protected so better, watched over with no more jealousy here, than elsewhere.

Is it not time that the virtuous Editor of the Telegraph found something else to write about? This never-ending cant concerning the extraordinary virtue of the people of Utah is about played out. Our experience here is that among the Mormons there are many good, honest, well meaning people, a few fools, and a considerable sprinkling of black-hearted scoundrels. We do not reckon the Telegraph man among the first class. The suicidal course he has pursued for the past week may well alarm his masters. We wonder he isn't sent on a mission!

THE KANSAS CORPUS CASE!

Mrs. Bransfield to have the Children!

Decision of Judge McCurdy.

Yesterday, in Chambers, Judge McCurdy delivered the following decision in the case of Mary E. Bransfield, petitioner for the custody of her children.
We have not space to-day for extended remarks, but shall refer to it hereafter: MARY E. BRANSFIELD, Petitioner for Writ of Habeas Corpus.
JAMES SLADE, Respondent.
In Chambers.

This case came before me upon the petition of Mary E. Bransfield, for a writ of habeas corpus.

The petitioner alleges that she is the mother and entitled to the custody of her two minor children, one named Emma E., aged about nine years, the other named William, aged about five years. That said children have been taken by one Jane Slade, and are illegally detained and restrained of their liberty and from the custody of the petitioner. The issuance of a writ of habeas corpus is prayed, and that upon a hearing, the custody of the children be adjudged to the petitioner, &c.

A writ of habeas corpus was accordingly issued. To this writ no resistance is made by the defendant, Mrs. Jane Slade. The children were surrendered by her into the custody of the United States Marshal, in whose possession they now are, awaiting the order to be made in this proceeding.

The children being brought before me by the United States Marshal, and the inquiry proceeding as to their parentage and the right of the mother to their custody, at this stage of the case the Attorney General of Utah Territory, by Judge Z. Snow, his deputy, appears and files a petition in his own name, in which he sets forth that the children in custody are the children of one Archibald N. Hill, now absent from the Territory of Utah, and that Mary E. (the petitioner) his wife, is their mother; that the said petitioner and one Margaret Hill, and said Archibald N. Hill, are all members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and have been such for about sixteen years; that during that time or nearly so they have resided in this Territory, and lived together as husband and wives until March 27th, 1866, when the said Mary E. eloped with a person by the name of Squire N. Bransfield, and, under her maiden name, pretended to be married to him; that to worship God according to the dictates of the conscience of the members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints it is an essential doctrine that polygamy shall be practiced among them; that the said Margaret was married to the said Archibald, pursuant to their rules of solemnization of marriages, July 12, 1851; and the said Mary E. was likewise married to the said Archibald N. Hill, Dec. 20, 1853, &c. The somewhat singular instrument concludes as follows: "As to the illegal imprisonment of the children by Mrs. Jane Slade, the Attorney General has to say, if so, in the name of the people of the United States in the Territory of Utah, he demands their immediate and complete release, and that they be committed to the custody of their father, unless she is unfit in point of character to take charge of them."

I placed no restraint on the introduction of testimony, however irrelevant; and from the evidence it appears that Archibald N. Hill, now absent from the Territory, was married July 12th, 1851, to Margaret Hill, who is now living, and ever since said marriage has been and still is the wife of said Hill; that on the 20th day of December, 1853, the said Mary E. (the petitioner) was married to the said Archibald N. Hill, and that the children in custody are the fruits of their marriage; that the petitioner, on the 27th day of March, 1866, and without having been divorced from said Hill, was married to Squire N. Bransfield, since deceased, under her maiden name of Mary E. Milan. Some testimony was also adduced by Judge Snow touching the practice of polygamy in the Territory, but it is unnecessary to set it forth.

The discussion of the points supposed to be involved in this case, has taken a wide range, far more extensive than the facts of the case, and the status of the parties appearing before me, have warranted. The case has been argued by counsel for the petitioner, and by Judge Snow as if the legality of the system of Polygamy, prior to the recent act of Congress, (July 1st, 1862,) were at issue. The question being as to the custody of the children. I have considered it my duty to hear all that might be said, as I did not know but, that before the case closed, some claim might be made to the custody of the children that would demand a respectful consideration, as compared with that of the mother. Such has not been the case—Judge Snow as nearly as I can judge, and I confess myself somewhat in the dark, would seem to take two views concerning the relationship of the Attorney General to the case, under one view he represents the absent father, Mr. Hill. Under this view alone could any discussion of the legality of Polygamy be at all relevant. It is however entirely incorrect; the Attorney General does not represent Mr. Hill, (Judge Snow expressly disclaimed making an appearance for him), any more than he represents the absent fathers of the Territory generally. The absurdity of such a pretence is palpable. What right has he in his official capacity to resist the adjudging of the custody of these children to their mother? The father's claim to their custody would be entitled to a respectful consideration, but not on court or judge, having any claim to self-respect, would consider the claim of any other person as worthy to be compared with that of the mother.

The father of these children is and must necessarily be unrepresented here. Hence it is unnecessary, and therefore improper to decide the question of the legality of Polygamy prior to the recent act of Congress. A question of such grave social bearings should be decided on a complete presentation of its merits than has been made in this case. The other view that seems to possess Judge Snow is that the Attorney General represents, in this proceeding, the people of Utah, and has a right, in their name, to insist that the rights of the mother to these children shall be entirely disregarded, and that the children be adjudged to the custody of them to the mother—the only person appearing before me who has any right or pretence of right to their custody—and that I should order them to be taken to the Probate Court, to be a guardian might be appointed for them by that court, and they in that way be taken from their mother. As to Judge Snow's suggestion that in this proceeding I am to act in subordination to the jurisdiction of the Probate Court over minors in the matter of appointing guardians, and that I certify my opinion upon in to that tribunal, I beg leave to differ with him as to the functions I exercise, and the scope of my official duty. I do not propose to submit my decision to the review of that tribunal. The Probate Court as such has no right to the absolute custody of minor children; it may, under the laws of the Territory, in certain specified cases, appoint guardians for minor children. This is not one of these cases, as the slightest inspection of the statutes of the Territory will show.

It would be a judicial outrage, possible in no country possessing a settled jurisprudence of having any respect for law, under the facts of this case, and through the form of an appointment of guardians by the Probate Court, to take these children from their mother.

Any embarrassment that might have been caused by the relation that Mr. Bransfield at first sustained to this proceeding, has been removed by his recent death.

A few words as to the rules governing Judges in acting on cases involving the rights of parents and others to the custody of minor children. When such an intimate relation as that of husband and wife is disrupted, and a question as to the custody of the children of the marriage is brought before a Judge in a proceeding of this kind, he cannot avoid a decision of the question of right involved—he cannot confine himself to releasing the children from alleged wrongful restraint. He must bear all who claim the custody of the children, and must adjudge that custody to whoever is entitled thereto. Parents or either of them have that right as against the whole world, unless the law declares them unfit persons to have charge of them, and authorizes its officers to remove them from the custody of their parents. This under any honest administration of justice, would take place only in very extreme cases—cases of cruelty or vicious, brutal or criminal conduct toward the child. It is in cases arising between husband and wife that embarrassment most frequently arises. The grand controlling consideration with Judges in determining cases of this kind is a regard for the good of the children subjected to their jurisdiction.

The law recognizes the family, and confers very extensive powers upon parents over their children, yet this power is recognized as conferred for the good of the members of the family, and is temporary in its character—and when a family is disrupted by a disagreement of husband and wife, all the circumstances of the case, the age of the children, their sex, the necessity that may exist for the peculiar care and nurture of the mother, the character of the parents, their habits and relationships, their pecuniary circumstances respectively, the state of affection existing between them and their children, all these matters and many others are to be considered in assigning the custody of a child to either the father or the mother.

Under our system of jurisprudence the custody of a child is a duty assigned to her in preference to the father, unless she is unfit in point of character to take charge of them.

In the early stage of development of the common law, when there was little culture, and the position of woman was far lower than it is now, harsher rules were applied, and a complete, legal subordination of woman to man was wrought out and enforced but with the advance of society in culture these rules have been so far relaxed that that must be somewhat bold who would assert any superiority of right on the part of fathers over mothers as to the custody of their children. The tendency of judicial decisions upon this question and the entire movement of modern thought is toward the recognition of the complete equality of rights in this relationship. The want of nobleness on the part of man, who makes and applies the laws, can be shown no more completely than by asserting that the mother who bears a child has right over it more restricted than that of the father. Whether the rights of a father under a system of Polygamy as against the mother should be more extended than under a system of Monogamy, any intelligent person can decide.

There is nothing in the suggestion that I am acting outside of my Judicial District.

I am acting in this case in the capacity of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Utah Territory.

It is therefore ordered that the petitioner, Mary E. Bransfield, have the custody, care and control of her said children, William and Emma E., and that the United States Marshal, Josiah Hosmer, surrender the said children to her possession.

Great Salt Lake City, U. T., April 10th, 1866.

SOL. P. McCURDY,

Associate Justice Supreme Court Utah Territory.

The following is the first section of the Civil Rights Bill, which contains the gist of the whole bill:

"That all persons born in the United States and not subject to any foreign power, excluding Indians not taxed, are hereby declared to be citizens of the United States, and such citizens of every race and color, without regard to any condition of slavery or involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall have the same right to make and enforce contracts, to sue, be parties, and give evidence, to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold and convey real and personal property, and to full and equal benefit of all laws and proceedings for the security of person and property, as is enjoyed by white citizens, and shall be subject to like punishment, pains and penalties, and to none other, any law, statute, ordinance, regulation or custom to the contrary notwithstanding."

The New York Stockholders of the 20th says that the chief interest of the stock market continues, at least as regards the outside public, to center on petroleum and mining stocks. The transactions are steadily increasing in volume. Colorado stocks have again taken hold of public favor, this time to keep it, we are disposed to believe, the sulphurizing processes keep their promises.

OBITUARY—We recently announced the death of Mr. John Sharp at Fort Bridger, where he has resided for a number of years, and where, at length, his wasted frame reposes after long suffering. He was born in Richmond, Va., and at the time of his death was about 38 years of age. Having removed to Missouri, he volunteered in Doniphan's regiment from that State at the breaking out of the war with Mexico, serving until our proud banner floated in triumph over the Mexican capital and a conquered peace returned our brave volunteers to the harmless pursuits of civil life. He came to Utah in '58, and has resided here since that time with short intervals of absence.

His health has been steadily failing for the last eight years, but the enemy of life made his advances so insidiously that the victim was himself hardly conscious of his danger until too late, and then met his fate calmly as a brave man should. His ideas were eminently practical ones; business was his forte, and his mind was clear and unclouded to the last, despite the ravages of relentless disease upon his physical system. He had faults—we all have—but before his many noble qualities they shrink into insignificance and were forgotten. He has at last found the repose for which he longed, which even the lingering torments of disease cannot disturb. Peace to his ashes.

Tribute of Respect.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 11, 1866.
At a meeting of the Fenian Brotherhood of Utah Territory, a committee consisting of four members was appointed to draft resolutions expressive of their grief at the death of their Brother, George H. Chamberlain. The following preamble and resolutions were submitted and unanimously approved of:

WHEREAS, In the overruling ways of Divine Providence, our late brother and friend, George H. Chamberlain, has been taken from an honorable career in this life by the hand of death, it is therefore

Resolved, That in the death of George H. Chamberlain we are called upon to deplore an event which has deprived the country of one of its best citizens and a brave and patriotic soldier.

Resolved, That in the decease of our late Brother, Ireland has lost a gallant defender and an honest advocate, and we earnestly commend his many sterling virtues to the perpetual remembrance of our countrymen.

Resolved, That the members of the F. B. in Utah Territory manifest their sorrow and respect for their deceased Brother, by wearing the usual badge of mourning for 30 days.

Resolved, That our sincere sympathy is offered to the friends and relatives of our deceased Brother, and a copy of the same be forwarded to his relatives with an appropriate letter.

Resolved, That the foregoing preamble and resolutions be published in the Daily Union Vedette, of Salt Lake City, and the Irish American, of New York City.

DEEP CREEK MINES.

These mines were first made known through the discoveries of Messrs. Kinsley and Kelly, discharged soldiers from the 2d Cavalry California Volunteers, in September, 1864. At this time the district, known as the "Kinsley District," was organized, but no work of any consequence was done until the following year, when some men commenced work upon a copper mine, which has proved exceedingly rich. There are numerous mines of this class in the district, which, in the future, will be very valuable, the ore being worth $380.00 per ton in San Francisco. But the silver lodes are, of course, regarded as the most important at the present time, and, judging from specimens in our possession, they are second to none in richness in the Territory. The result of fifteen assays made by Mr. Hartline, of Egan Cañon, from the croppings of the "Emmet" ledge, gave all the way from $50. to $250. in silver and $9. to $23. in gold per ton. Messrs. Kinsley and O'Dougherty & Co. are running a tunnel into this ledge, working night and day.

Fifty ledges have been located, and "prospected" to a limited extent; shafts having been sunk upon them from 5 to 45 feet in depth; the most of the latter work, however, has been done in order to secure the claims in conformity with the laws of the district. Fifteen miners have worked here through the winter. Among the principle ledges are the "Emmet," 3 feet wide; "Logan," 3 feet; and "Wisconsin," 2 feet. The ledges vary from 6 inches to 3 feet in width at the surface, and, as far as they have been developed, increase in width downwards.

Deep Creek is about 185 miles west from Salt Lake City, on the Overland Mail Line, and the principle mines are about 33 miles from Deep Creek Station, on what is known as the old Emigrant Road. Wood is plentiful at the mines, but water, sufficient for mill purposes, is from 5 to 8 miles distant. There is a fine spring of good water close by, sufficient of culinary purposes.

But little has been "talked," hitherto, in relation to these mines, yet our informant says that "the boys know they've got a good thing, and they're going to press it—you bet!" Bully for them!

REWARD!

$4,150!

WHEREAS, on the evening of the 3d of April, 1866, SQUIRE N. BRASSFIELD, late of Nevada, was assassinated on a public thoroughfare of Great Salt Lake City, at about 8:30 P. M., and the murderer has not yet been detected, the Gentile citizens of Salt Lake City, to the end that the guilty shall not escape, and that justice shall be done, hereby offer a reward of $4,150.00, to be paid to any person or persons who shall cause the arrest and conviction of the assassin—that amount having been subscribed for that purpose, and will be on deposit in the Banking House of John W. Kerr & Co., on April 9, 1866. The following is a description of the assassin as testified to by witnesses before the Governor's jury:
About 35 years of age, of medium height, dark hair, Had on at time of assassination a dark coat, fitting closely, and a light vest.

ALL SORTS OF ITEMS.

"Just as the bee collects her sweets,
From every flower and flower she meets,
What from many a source we draw,
We give, tho' not the whole as new."

Which is the cheaper, a bride or a bridegroom? She is always given away, the bridegroom is sometimes sold.

An Irishman being in church
where the collection apparatus resembled election boxes, on its being handed to him, whispered in the carrier's ear that he was not naturalized and could not vote.

It is said that when a Frenchman has to wait, he smokes; a German meditates; an Italian sleeps; an Englishman walks; but an American swears, invents some contortion of the limbs, and tries to put his feet higher than ever.

THE CASE STATED.—Punch
thus sums up the ins and outs of the case at Washington, in an unusually clear statement for an English writer on our affairs:

"Says Johnson 'To hold that the states of the South
Were 'er out of the Union is a sin.'
Says Congress, 'Wa'al, guess if the never were out,
There ain't no call for lettin' 'em in.'"

A lady who has read of the extensive manufacture of odometers,
to tell how far a carriage has run,
said she wished some Connecticut
genius would invent an instrument to tell how far husbands have been in the evening, when they just step down to the post-office.
